Introduction

Encounter balance is not an exact science, but I have attempted to ensure each encounter provides close to 50% more XP than the encounters in this second Kingmaker Chapter - mostly by adding the advanced templates and racial HD’s to single foes, adding more minion-style enemies when appropriate (such as Bandits, Kobolds, Mites) and increasing the level of named NPC’s; rather than replacing the current encounters with different powerful monsters. I’ve heard other people simply recommend increasing the hp of all encounters by 50%; however this is an inferior way to add challenge to an encounter; a 6 person party has a greater economy of action, and the enemies are no harder to hit, no more likely to resist spells, and are greatly outnumbered in most encounters. A 50% increase to HP is not a 50% increase in encounter difficulty. Similarly, after producing my first conversion for Chapter 1, some people asked why not simply keep the players a level back where they should be and run the module as written. My counter-arguments to this viewpoint are available on the first conversion thread and I don’t want to have to defend my conversion against that argument again - if you feel keeping your players a level back is the best solution, then simply do so.

I am not a professional, merely an avid gamer and DM hoping to go into the RP industry after my University degree, so there are likely mistakes to be found if you look hard enough - I will attempt to correct any I find but I make no guarantees. Also, this entire document is FULL of spoilers - so read no further if you are only a player of this fine adventure path, not a GM. Unlike the first conversion, i’ve proposed additions to the treasure gained in various places, but I have always listed the book’s version of the treasure as well. The NPC’s have better gear if their level has been raised, and I have added a small section detailing changes to the rewards of sidebar and cover quests, between Part 2 and Part 3.

If I receive positive feedback on this conversion, I am likely to perform similar conversions to the latter chapters of Kingmaker. The positive feedback I got from converting the first chapter was a great motivator to eventually write this one.

Note: When I mention ‘our XP target’ throughout this conversion, the target is a total XP 50% higher than the original book’s XP values; if an encounter in Rivers Run Red is ordinarily worth 1,000XP, we want our converted encounter to be worth 1,500XP ideally; so the 6 players advance as fast as the four players would in the standard versions of the encounters.

Basic Recommendations

- Give the PC’s 150XP per hex explored; this gives the PC’s 25XP per hex, the same as if you had run it for 4 players with the default 100XP.
- For each successful quest, award the PC’s 2400XP instead of the standard 1600XP - a 50% increase yielding 400XP per character.
- I recommend allowing your PC’s to have a year of Kingdom building time, developing their fledgling Kingdom in the Northern Greenbelt before springing any events on them. I have not changed the Kingdom building element of the AP in this conversion, but to keep the XP in line award the following XP for kingdom achievements:
  - Founding a Kingdom- 3,600XP
  - Establishing a Capital City- 1,800XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 5- 2,400XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 10- 3,600XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 25- 4,800XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 50- 7,200XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 75- 9,600XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 100- 19,200
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 150- 38,400XP
  - Reaching a Kingdom Size of 200- 115,200XP
  - Filling a square with four blocks of buildings- 2,400XP
  - Filling three city squares with buildings- 7,200XP
  - Filling an entire city grid with buildings- 19,200XP

Note that these XP awards are one time only, and are per group not per character. For example, each PC should gain 600XP for founding a kingdom.

Designer’s Notes

Calculation and Analysis:
Kundal 1,200XP (CR4)
Total XP Value= 1,200XP
Divided by 4= 300XP
Divided by 6= 200XP

Target encounter XP- 1,800XP (200 each for a 6 person group), and 2,400XP for the story award if they manage to cure his Lycanthropy.

Changes made:
• Kundal has been upgraded to a 5th Level Barbarian, and his equipment has also been scaled up; his hide armour has been made +1, using 1,000 gold pieces of our 1,050GP budget to account for his increased level. The remaining 50 gold pieces are included in various coinage on his stat block. These changes increase his XP from 1,200XP to 1,600XP- sadly a little short of our target. I will attempt to address the minor XP shortfall in a later event.
• Note that Kundal’s attack rolls and damage already include the use of the Power Attack feat, as I believe it’s more in-character for Kundal to always power attack in his hybrid form. I gave Kundal the Toughness feat for the precious extra HP a solo enemy always seems to need, plus it fit a 24 Con Lycanthrope nicely.
• The story award has been scaled up by 50%, from 1,600XP to 2,400XP.

Calculation and Analysis:
Grigori - 1,600XP (CR5)
Total XP Value = 1,600XP
Divided by 4 = 400XP
Divided by 6 = 267XP
Target encounter XP - 2,400XP (400 each for a 6 person group), and 2,400XP for the story award if they defeat him in combat.

Changes made:
- Although I toyed with the idea of giving Grigori a bodyguard, I was loathe to change the concept too much- and an additional level of Bard will add 800XP to the encounter; exactly our target. I added Ventriloquism as his extra 1st Level spell, and Glibness as his 3rd Level spell, going with the talking/trickster spells he has as his theme thus far. For his feat, I added Mobility to enhance his ability to escape confrontation.
- The extra gold allowance for his higher level amounts to 1,350GP, which I spent on the following- A scroll of phantom steed (525GP), a scroll of invisibility sphere (which he can use to cause confusion and panic as well as create human shields as a large section of a crowd can disappear with him) (525GP), and a scroll of misdirection if he believes the PC’s may be using divination to track him down (200GP). The remaining 100GP has been added to his gold pieces in his stat block
- Grigori should not be played as a combat encounter, and the changes i’ve made serve to reinforce this- his role is as an agitator and self-styled ‘voice of the people’, and his skills and spell selection are set up beautifully for this. Even if the PC’s outlaw his speeches, he can disguise himself as someone else, or my personal favourite- perform shows ridiculing and mocking the PC’s in a local theatre with his Perform(Comedy) skill. Grigori should be a persistent handful, a worthy adversary that the PC’s should hate and grudgingly respect.

During Combat If the PCs attack him, Grigori casts calm emotions on them while he tries to rally the townsfolk to his aid. In combat, he casts Grease on the PC’s weapons and hideous laughter on his attackers. He is not above using charm person to gain allies and bodyguards among the townsfolk.
Morale If reduced to fewer than 20HP or fewer, Grigori flees town (using invisibility or expeditious retreat if necessary), only to return again later to continue his campaign against the PCs.

Event 3: The Cult of Gyronna

Designer’s Notes:

Calculation and Analysis:
Malgorzata Niska - 1,200XP
Gyronna Cultists (6) - 1,200XP (Total)
Total XP Value = 2,400XP
Divided by 4 = 600XP
Divided by 6 = 400XP
Target encounter XP - 3,600XP (600 each for a 6 person group)

Changes made:
- My initial plan was to increase Malgorzata’s level by 1 and add more cultists- but the Cultists really are just worthless meat shields to Malgorzata, unlikely to do much more than park their soon-to-be-corpses in between Malgorzata and the PC’s. I then decided to add two levels to Malgorzata, doubling her XP value from 1,200 to 2,400 and meeting our XP target exactly. I’m particularly fond of Malgorzata; she reminds me of how I ran Jarett Nurth from Red Hand of Doom- a vicious and evil woman that terrified my PCs even as they cut her down... This encounter should be a heavy combat encounter, and with Malgorzata’s low AC and small number of followers in the base version her entire cult probably wouldn’t last two rounds against 6 PC’s.
- To make up for the XP short fall in Event 1, I’ve also added an extra cultist to even it out. This means that this event is worth a total of 3,800XP; 200 over our target but balancing out the deficit from the first event.
- The extra gold allowance for Malgorzata’s higher level amounts to 2,550GP, which I spent on the following- An armour upgrade from her leather to a +1 Breastplate (1,340GP), and a +1 Heavy Steel Shield (1,170GP). The remaining 40GP has been added to her gold pieces in her stat block.
- Malgorzata’s tactics have been modified by me somewhat; frankly, casting Rage on her physically weak cultists is a poor tactic for a character of her level, even in the book version. I have also removed the section on aura of madness- she is not high enough level in either version to actually have it... Note that her statblock includes the spells listed in her ‘Before Combat’ tactics section, and her melee damage includes Destructive smite.

During Combat Malgorzata casts chaos hammer on the first round of combat, and prayer on the second. She then attacks with spiritual weapon and uses confusion on the most effective melee combatant or touch of idiocy against enemy spellcasters. If forced into melee combat, she attacks with destructive smites. If surrounded, Malgorzata channels negative energy, using Selective Channeling to exclude as many of her cultists as possible.

Part Two: Into the Wild

A- The Grove of Tiressia (Standard)

Designer’s Notes:

Thematicallly, I was tempted to give Tiressia some Sorceror levels with the Fey bloodline, but eventually opted to build on her strengths and giving her two extra levels of Druid, increasing her XP from 1,200XP to 2,400XP. matching our total XP target of 3,600 when Falchos the Satyr is taken into account. I also cleared up the potential confusion concerning her domain- her domain abilities and domain spell are Weather, but the written version had her domain listed as Plant in SQ. I think the author meant the domain to be Weather judging from the spells etc. so I have changed that. Tiressia’s combat gear has been improved a little, as it serves as the PC’s reward for fulfilling her quest. Her tactics have been changed slightly to account for her better spells prepared, and to go with the Dryad theme I have given her. I used +1 Leaf Armour from the Campaign Setting book just because it fits so well with her theme; but if you’re not comfortable with that, just treat it as +1 studded leather (her Dex isn’t high enough to make any difference to her AC) and give her an extra 325GP (the difference in cost).

TACTICS
During Combat Tiressia tries to avoid melee combat, using entangle to hinder foes and deep slumber on any creature attacking her tree. She is fond of using summon swarm to summon a swarm of poisonous spiders, centred on any foes that are entangled and will struggle to escape. She uses her scrolls to summon additional creatures to help Falchos in battle, while jumping from tree to tree using tree stride and tree meld to attack enemies at a distance with her longbow. If she or Falchos is taking heavy damage from a bow/crossbow user, she uses Warp Wood, taking care to also warp any other visible weapons.

Morale Tiressia retreats into her oak when reduced to 20HP or lower, praying that her attackers get bored and leave.

Designer’s Notes:

Calculation and Analysis:
- Corax - 800XP
- Corax’s Loggers - 810XP
- Melianse - 1,200XP
- Charmed Loggers - 260XP

Total XP Value (Corax’s Force) = 1,610
Total XP Value (Melianse’s Force) = 1,460
Total XP Value (Overall) = 3,070

Divided by 4 = 768XP
Divided by 6 = 512XP

Target encounter XP - 4,608XP (768XP each for a 6 person group), thus we need to increase the overall XP by 1,538. Corax +400XP, Melianse +400XP, an extra pair of charmed loggers +270XP, an extra three Corax loggers -+405XP. 4545XP total

Revised encounter XP - 4,545XP, only a minor 63XP under our target (negligible). This amounts to 758XP per character.

Changes made:

- Corax has been upgraded to a 5th Level Ranger, and his equipment has also been scaled up; he has been outfitted with a +1 buckler. These changes increase his XP from 800XP to 1,200XP - a change of +400XP. I have also included his favoured terrain bonuses to his stat block, so do not add them in again. Corax is used to fighting into melee, so I gave him Precise Shot for his 5th Level feat.
- I did not want Melianse to have access to 3rd Level spells or add racial HD, so I’ve decided she’s simply a particularly powerful Nixie and gave her the advanced template. All relevant modifiers have been added to her statblock below. +400XP
- In this conversion, Melianse has charmed three loggers instead of two (+135XP), and Corax has an extra three loggers at his disposal (+405XP). Like in the original book version, Corax and his men have a slight advantage, but Melianse has a very defensible position.

This increases the XP for this location from 1,800XP to 2,800XP, a minor 100XP over our target.

Replace the encounter as-is with a Winter Wolf (Bestiary 280) and two Worgs (Bestiary 280).

Designer’s Notes:

Adding the advanced template to the Scythe tree is preferable to adding the Giant template, as I thought a colossal plant seemed a bit too big and obvious among the other trees. Adding the advanced template brings the XP for the Scythe Tree up from 2,400XP to 3,200XP - still 400XP short of our target of 3,600XP. I have added an extra hp/level to the Scythe Tree in an ad-hoc ‘Tough’ template to justify raising the XP of the encounter to 3,600XP. I used the Scythe Tree stats from the Bestiary on D20PFSRD before I noticed it differs a little from the book version- I changed the Scythe Tree’s feats to match the book version. This version is a little stronger than the book version would have been if given the advanced template- which is fine as it helps us justify the 3,600XP.

Tactics

During Combat The scythe tree uses Lunge to increase its reach on the first round on combat. It focuses its attacks on only one or two opponents, slicing them with Power Attacks.

Morale Unused to strong resistance, the scythe tree fights until it is reduced to 13 hit points or fewer, at which point it tries to flee into the forest.

I - The Mad Hermit

Designer’s Notes:

Making ‘Cat’ a Dire Lion instead of a Puma fits thematically and adds 1,000XP to the encounter 100XP short of our target which is acceptable. It also means the Hermit will be able to flank for much longer with a tougher companion and deal some nasty damage. The total XP is now 3,200XP (1,600 Hermit, 1,600 Lion).

Replace the puma with a Dire Lion (Bestiary 193)

J - The Swamp Witch (Standard)

Designer’s Notes:

Tempting as it was to fully convert the Old Beldame into an APG Witch, I have kept her as a Sorceror. Our target XP gain for this encounter is 1,800. I have added three HD to Scarecrow and increased the construct’s size to large- increasing his CR from 4 to 6, an increase worth 1,200XP. Scarecrow’s new stat block is detailed below. The Old Beldame has been given an additional Sorceror level, increasing her CR to 7 and increasing the XP value by 800- 200XP over our target which is acceptable. Her new stat block is also listed below. I am rather confused as to why she has a Spellbook- clearly someone got mixed up between Sorceror and Wizard. I gave her black tentacles as her 4th level spell- it seemed appropriate and even with her extra level she will need some kind of controlling spell like black tentacles to have a chance against a 6 person party due to action economy. For her extra 1,800GP value in gear, I gave the Old Beldama a fully charged Brooch of Shielding and added an extra 300GP to her treasure. A note on treasure- the Old Beldame should offer 150GP instead of 100GP for every black rattlecap to compensate for the additional players.

Treasure

Book Treasure: A small metal box hidden under the Old Beldame’s bed (DC15 Perception check to find) contains 210CP, 313SP, 384GP and 96PP. Under the layer of coins is a scroll of Legend Lore.

Proposed Change in light of her increased wealth-by-level: A small metal box hidden under the Old Beldame’s bed (DC15 Perception check to find) contains 210CP, 313SP, 384GP and 126PP. Under the layer of coins is a scroll of Legend Lore.

Note that the approach or animation of the scarecrow does not count as an obvious threat to the victim of this particular fascination effect (although the scarecrow’s attack does count as an obvious threat and ends the fascination). This is a mind affecting effect. The save DC is Charisma-based.
Fear (Su) The touch of a scarecrow infuses its target with overwhelming waves of fear. If the victim fails a DC 16 Will save, he is cowering and can take no actions other than attempting a new DC 14 Will save at the end of the following round (and each round thereafter) to throw off the effects of this fear. A successful save leaves the victim shaken for 1 round. This is a mind affecting fear effect. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Designer’s Notes:

Adding two extra HD to Old Crackjaw will result in his CR being increased to 1,600 from 1,200, as will using the advanced template. Using Table 1-2 in the Bestiary and referencing animals, we see that advancing him by one HD puts him somewhere between his original CR of 4 and CR 5. Thus, I have advanced Crackjaw by a single HD and given him the advanced template, resulting in an ad hoced advancement we will value at our target- 1,800XP. His revised stat block is below.

SPECIAL ABILITIES

Spiked Tail (Ex) A hodag’s tail spikes allow the creature’s tail slap to deal both bludgeoning and piercing damage.

Toss (Ex) A male hodag charging 20 feet or more that damages a foe with its gore attack can throw its foe with a special combat maneuver check. The opponent must be corporeal and at least one size category smaller than the hodag. If the hodag’s maneuver succeeds, its opponent is thrown back 10 feet (in a direction chosen by the hodag) and falls prone. The hodag can only toss its opponent in a straight line. If an obstacle prevents the creature’s movement, both the creature tossed and the object struck take 1d6 points of damage, and the creature falls prone in the space adjacent to the obstacle. A hodag can also toss an opponent straight up into the air. This does not move the opponent but causes it to take an additional 1d6 points of damage from falling.

Trackless (Ex) A hodag sweeps its tail behind itself in a way that obscures its tracks. Attempts to track a hodag have their normal DC increased by 10.

M - Hodag Den (CR 6: Hidden)

I have a tendency to use the advanced template a little too much, so I have advanced the Hodag’s HD to increase its CR to 6- an increase of 800XP from 1,600XP to 2,400XP- which exactly matches our target. When the Hodag uses power attack, it does so on a -3/+6 basis as its BAB is +8 or higher.

O- Candlemere Tower (Landmark)

Designer’s Notes:

This is a difficult area to convert, and best left to individual GM discretion, in my humble opinion. I would recommend increasing the total numbers of will-o’-wisps to three dozen total and consider having them attack in pairs. Increasing the DCs for the nettle’s Fortitude saves is another way to increase the encounter difficulty of this location.

P- The Mud Bowl (Standard)

Designer’s Notes:

Our XP target for Tendriculos is not easily reached via the CR system - a CR6 encounter is 2,400 so our target is 3,600. A CR7 encounter is worth 3,200XP (400XP short) and a CR8 encounter is worth 4,800XP (1,200XP too much). I have given Tendriculos the advanced template to increase the CR to 7, and I would treat the noxious fumes as a fortitude save DC of 18 as an ad-hoced way to award the extra 400XP - more PCs likely to fail the saves means a tougher encounter. A note on treasure - the Old Beldame should offer 150GP instead of 100GP for every black rattlecap to compensate for the additional players.

Designer’s Notes:
Increasing the Leucrotta’s CR from 5 to 6 increases the XP yield from 1,600XP to 2,400XP, a change meeting our target of 800XP. I have advanced the version of the Leucrotta found on D20PFSRD, and included its ecology, habitat and society from that page to help a budding DM to understand this nasty beast. To account for a larger group, I also suggest the following modification to the treasure in the Leucrotta’s lair—add a Black Pearl worth 400 gold pieces (the difference in an average treasure for an encounter between 5th and 6th CR.)

Leucrotta
XP 2,400
CE large advanced Magical Beast
Init +7; Senses Darkvision 60 ft., Low-Light Vision, scent; Perception +16

Defense
AC 22, touch 12, flat-footed 19 (+3 Dex, +10 natural, –1 size)

Speed Spd 80 ft., Climb 50 ft.
Melee bite +13 (2d6+10/19–20) and 2 kicks +8 (1d6+3)
Space 10 ft.; Reach 10 ft.
Special Attacks lure, powerful bite, voice mimicry

Tactics
Before Combat A leucrotta prefers to scout and observe its victims before attacking, listening to the names and the voices of its prey for up to several days before it strikes so it knows which of its victims to take in order to maximize the distress and sorrow in not only its chosen victim, but among the victim’s friends and family. If it can, it waits until an opportune moment to lure an enemy away from its allies, repeating this tactic as often as it can before the remaining enemies catch on.
During Combat Once engaged in combat, a leucrotta charges its closest opponent with a bite attack. It continues to bite, using its kick attacks against other foes if anyone attempts to get in the way.
Morale A leucrotta is a cruel, hate-filled creature, but it’s also highly intelligent. If faced with a foe that it has difficulty hitting or who reduces it to less than 25 Hit Points, a leucrotta flees and hides, hoping to track the foe and then lure him to his doom at a later time.

Base Atk +6; CMB +14; CMD 27 (31 vs. trip)

Special Attacks
Lure (Su) A leucrotta can use its voice to create a powerful compulsion to approach it if the listener isn’t aware of the danger. At any point that the target is unaware of the leucrotta (such as if the leucrotta is hiding or concealed in darkness), the leucrotta can call out to the target using its voice mimicry. The target must be in line of sight and within 60 feet. When the leucrotta calls out, the target must make a DC 18 Will save or fall under the effects of a suggestion to approach the leucrotta. This effect functions identically to a suggestion spell with a caster level equal to the leucrotta’s Hit Dice. A creature that saves cannot be affected again by the same leucrotta’s lure for 24 hours. Lure is a language-dependent effect, and if the leucrotta uses the victim’s name during the lure, the victim suffers a –4 penalty on his saving throw. This is a sonic mind-affecting charm effect. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Powerful Bite (Ex) A leucrotta’s bite is powerful indeed, capable of slicing through metal and cutting through bone with terrifying ease. It gains 1.5 times its Strength modifier to all Damage rolls made with its bite attack, and threatens a critical hit with its bite on a roll of 19–20. Against objects, a leucrotta’s bite treats the object as having a hardness of 5 less than the object’s actual hardness rating.

Voice Mimicry (Ex) A leucrotta can perfectly imitate the voice of any creature it has heard talking. It makes a Bluff check when using voice mimicry—listeners may oppose this Bluff with Perception checks to see through the mimicry, although if the listener isn’t familiar with the voice of the person being mimicked, he suffers a –8 penalty on his Perception check to oppose the leucrotta’s Bluff. Leucrotta find it difficult to mimic the voices of creatures more than one size category smaller or larger than themselves, and take a –8 penalty on their Bluff checks to mimic the voices of such smaller or larger creatures.

Ecology
Environment temperate or tropical forests and hills
Organization solitary, pair, or pack (3–12)
Treasure standard
The leucrotta is a vile, untrustworthy creature that roams in packs through desolate forests and plains. Though the leucrotta has a fondness for blood and violence, it is not a mindless savage, but rather a shockingly intelligent beast capable of speech and complex plans.

A typical leucrotta stands just over 5 feet tall at the shoulder and weighs 800 pounds. Its body appears to be an odd combination of lion, stag, and badger. Its light fur is usually covered with dried, foul-smelling muck.

Ecology

It is said that the first leucrotta were born from Lamashu after she took a particularly virile hyena as a mate long ago. Certainly, most leucrottas venerate the demons Queen as their mother and maintain small skull mounds in their lairs as personal shrines. A leucrotta is highly intelligent, yet many of its behavior patterns mimic those of a cruel-minded predator—as if the leucrotta uses its intelligence only as a tool to trap foes and to enjoy the pain and torment it inflicts. The creature certainly shows a boundless enthusiasm and creativity in the methods of securing its meals and entertainments.

The leucrotta’s jaws are fantastically powerful, capable of shearing through bone and the hardest of scaly hides with ease. A leucrotta’s metabolism is equally powerful, and the creature’s digestive process is so swift that it is in a constant state of hunger. The leucrotta creates no waste as a by-product of feeding—its stomach and intestines process every ounce of consumed matter. A leucrotta can’t digest metals, stone, or other hard, inorganic substances, forcing it to periodically disgorge such materials in foul smelling masses it often picks through to find objects of value to aid in luring foes into its clutches.

Habitat & Society

The leucrotta is a social creature and generally travels in packs that consist of an elder male, a younger male, and several females and pups. The two males often spar in combat, though not to the death. As long as the elder male remains dominant in these battles, it remains the pack leader. Once the younger male starts to win the majority of these fights, it assumes the mantle of pack leader, and the elder male leaves to travel on its own. This almost bestial pack-mentality doesn’t seem to mesh with the creature’s considerable intellect, but the leucrotta appears not to mind, saving its intelligence for setting ambushes, spying on villages for new victims, coming up with new methods to torment victims, or enjoying the desperate pleading and begging of their food before eating it alive.

A leucrotta pack stays close to rivers and to lakes when possible, since such regions are far more likely to attract prey. A favorite leucrotta ploy is to wait near an abandoned boat or shack along the water and then lure good-natured and foolish souls into their trap. “Having a leucrotta’s tongue” is a well-known phrase throughout the realms of Golarion, referring to those rogues who would double-cross an unsuspecting victim.

Leucrottas have been known on occasion to ally themselves with tribes of gnolls. They refuse to be used willingly as beasts of burden, but sometimes allow favored gnoll companions to ride them as steeds into battle. The leucrotta in a gnoll pack often thinks of itself as a leader, and treats the established gnoll leader poorly in an attempt to goad the gnoll into attacking it. Those leucrottas who manage to slay the gnoll leader usually seize control of the tribe. A tribe of gnolls led by a leucrotta is generally much more aggressive than one that is not, since the leucrotta often demands its gnolls spread out and raid for more and more victims as it grows content in its position of power.

King of the Forest (Standard)

Designer’s Notes:

I have added a racial HD to the forest Drake and made a few other tweaks which puts him neatly into place for the HP, Damage, Attack Rolls and Saving Throws of a CR6 opponent. Although the damage on his attacks aren’t particularly high, Power Attack offsets that. I would recommend boosting the Drakes treasure somewh- to fit with the Elf scout’s equipment I would add a masterwork longsword and 70 gold pieces, making up the difference in treasure share.

SPECIAL ABILITIES
Acidic Cloud (Su) A forest drake can, as a standard action, spit a ball of acid that dissipates into a cloud on impact. This attack has a range of 60 feet and deals 4d4 points of acid damage to all creatures in a 10-foot-radius spread. A DC 16 Reflex save halves this damage. The cloud remains for 1d4 rounds once created, but a strong wind disperses it in a single round. Once a forest drake has used its acidic cloud breath, it cannot do so again for 1d6 rounds. The Reflex save is Constitution-based.

Aquatic Adaptation (Ex) A forest drake can breathe underwater indefinitely and can freely use its breath weapon and other abilities while underwater. The acidic cloud created by that attack dissipates after 1 round if used underwater.
Speed Surge (Ex) Three times per day as a swift action, a forest drake may draw on its draconic heritage for a boost of strength and speed to take an additional move action in that round.
T- The Wandering Giant (Standard)

Designer’s Notes:

Munguk has been given two additional racial hit dice to increase the XP yield from this encounter from 3,200XP to 4,800XP, matching our target. His modified stats are detailed below. Note that I have applied Power Attack to his melee attacks, and with the furious focus feat Munguk gained at his 11th HD, he does not take penalties to use Power Attack on his first attack each round. I have pre-applied power attack in case DM’s do not have access to the APG.

His stat point was spent on Constitution. Obviously with the two extra HD, Munguk is a cut above the average Hill Giant and a bit more experienced, and his hide armour has been enchanted (+1), covering the extra treasure due for the difference between a CR7 and CR8 encounter.

Sidebar and Cover Quests

Designer’s Notes:

Awarding extra XP and tweaking encounters is only half the battle. With a party of 6 players, we also need to account for the greater treasure shares needed for these more difficult encounters they face over a party of four. The NPC’s and monsters in this conversion have already been accounted for, this section purely concerns sidebar and cover quests, and the changes are listed in the order the quests appear from front cover to back cover, for your convenience.

- Forest Drake Hunt- The bounty for the drake is 1,800GP instead of 1,200GP.
- Troll Blood- 1,800GP in potions are offered instead of 1,200GP.
- Northern Howls- The bounty for the winter wolf is 1,800GP instead of 1,200GP.
- Shamblesap- The alchemist will pay 1000GP for the sap, along with four potions of cure moderate wounds.
- Wrath of the Scythe Tree- No change required (+2 Stability is good regardless of party size and her combat gear has been boosted during conversion.)
- Replacing Melianse’s Trees- No change required (+2 Stability is good regardless of party size)
- Tomb Treasure- Recommendations about the weapon found in the tomb can be found in Part 3.
- Black Rattlecaps- The Old Beldame will pay 150GP for each Rattlecap recovered instead of 100GP.
- Troll Slaying- The Swordlords award 3,000GP instead of 2,000GP.
- Hunting the Beast- No change required.
- Where’s Tig?- No change required.
- That Damn Turtle!- Arven instead gifts the PC’s a Belt of Mighty Constitution. This reward’s a little better than 50%, but helps offset shortfalls elsewhere.
- I Swear I’m Sober!- Stas forgot to mention that his +1 Keen Spear was also made of Adamantine!

- A Lady’s Desire- Instead of a Cloak of Protection +1, Lily offers the Horseshoes of Speed (Cavaliers and Mounted Combatants are well suited to this AP and the AP offers these specialised cavalry warriors little)
Part Three: The Lonely Barrow

F1- Entryway

Designer's Notes:

This change increases the XP value of the encounter from 1,200 to 1,800 XP, meeting our target.

Increase the number of bat swarms from 2 to 3.

F2- Central Chamber

Designer's Notes:

In addition to the four elemental statue Breath of Despair trap, the ten feet square triggers a CR2 Burning Hands trap emanating from one of the statues. This increases the hazard’s total XP yield to 1,800, matching our target. The cone is directed from the statue’s mouth into the ten feet area in the centre.

Burning Hands Trap CR 2

Type: magic; Perception DC 26; Disable Device DC 26

Trigger: proximity (alarm); Reset: none

Effect: spell effect (burning hands, 2d4 fire damage, DC 11 Reflex save for half damage); multiple targets (all targets in a 15-ft. cone)

F3- Crypts

Designer’s Notes:

I did not want to increase the number of skeletons from 12 to 18 to match our target, as the barrow is fairly small and the twelve of them will mostly be fodder as it is. Instead, I recommend each crypt to contain two utterly devoted skeletal champions, increasing the XP from 1,620 to 2,400, only a negligible 30 XP from our target.

F4- The Warrior’s Tomb

Designer’s Notes:

The first thing that jumped out at me when converting this encounter was the typo on the cairn wight’s attack rolls— even with a broken weapon, his attack roll is nowhere near +1... This has been corrected in my conversion. The tactics also mention raging... Except the Lonely Warrior has Fighter levels instead of Barbarian, despite being described as a Barbarian Warlord. This encounter was really rushed by the looks of it. Adding another Fighter level to The Lonely Warrior increases him to CR 7 at 3,200 XP- 400 XP short of our target. To make up the shortfall, have four skeletal warriors (135 XP each, 540 XP total, a minor 140 XP above our total target for this encounter) attending him, using aid another actions to bolster the warrior’s defences and attacks. I have upgraded The Lonely Warrior’s defence with his feat (Dodge) and as the shield has apparently withstood the test of time, I figured it may as well have magic to thank for it ;). The extra attack doesn’t make a huge amount of difference to his HP or defences, but the extra attack he gained with it could have deadly implications, as he may potentially deal two negative levels a round rather than one. However, his damage remains low, as does his secondary attack roll.

There was another discrepancy with the broken chain mail allowing more Dex bonus to AC than it should allow- double what it should allow in fact! I have dealt with this and bolstered the warrior by replacing the broken chain mail with a chain shirt.

Treasure: Although the Lonely Warrior is listed as possessing a broken +2 fey bane bastard sword, you should alter the exact type of weapon to match a type used by one of your PCs (see the Quest: Tomb Treasure sidebar on page 23).

I sincerely recommend you do not use a bastard sword, especially considering the magical bastard sword that crops up in the final chapter of Kingmaker!

I have statted the Lonely Warrior out with a Dwarven Waraxe, but it is a simple matter to change... the weapon to another (just change the damage dice, the weapon is broken so it only threatens on a natural 20 and only crits for x2- I wouldn’t recommend a two handed weapon though as this complicates matters further).

Designer's Notes:

Using the CR Modifiers for Mechanical Traps table, I have upgraded the portcullis trap’s damage so that it becomes a CR5 trap. This falls 200XP short of our target XP of 1,800, so we’ll keep that in mind for later encounters in the keep. Here’s the nastier portcullis.

Supernatural Speed (Su) A quickling moves with incredible speed. Save for when it remains motionless (at which point it is invisible), a quickling’s shape blurs and shimmers with this speed, granting it concealment (20% miss chance). In addition, this ability grants the quickling evasion and uncanny dodge (as the rogue abilities of the same name).

The Dancing Lady

Designer’s Notes:
As the XP per encounter has been made to fit our target of +50% via different encounters, we can afford to let this encounter fall a little short of our target. I am unfamiliar with the Baobhan Sith and do not have access to the Tome of Horrors so I have given her the advanced template, increasing her XP value by 800XP, 400XP short of our target. Increasing her CR any higher will instead give 1,200XP too much, and any creature or trap that grants 400XP is mostly negligible at this level. If you wish to award the extra 400XP, I’d suggest a simple arrow trap or the like, hitting the PC’s as they enter (it seems logical considering the Sith’s high craft trap modifier). Alternatively, ad hoc an extra 400XP by adding a HP/Level or some other small change to The Dancing Lady.

- Captivating Dance (Su) When a baobhan sith dances, all living creatures within 30 feet that view the rhythmic swaying and movements of her body must succeed on a DC 21 Will save or become utterly enthralled and captivated. Creatures that are sexually attracted to females who view this dance suffer a –2 penalty on their saving throw. A creature that makes its save cannot be affected again by the same baobhan sith’s captivating dance for one day. A captivated creature is dazed (it cannot attack, but can defend normally). This continues for as long as the baobhan sith dances. A baobhan sith can move and act normally (including using her spell-like abilities) while maintaining her dance. The save DC is Charisma-based.
- Dying Words (Sp) When a baobhan sith is slain, she utters a curse as a free action (whether it’s her turn or not) that affects her killer as if it were a bestow curse spell (caster level 10th). The target can resist the curse with a successful DC 21 Will save. If the save fails, the target suffers a –6 decrease to its highest ability score. The save DC is Charisma-based.

N5- Lizard Kings Hut

Designer’s Notes:

The total XP for this are is currently 3,600XP, thus our target is 5,400XP- an increase of 1,800. Giving Vesket another Fighter level and upgrading his leather armour to +2 (as well as increasing the treasure found in his hut- see below) increases his CR to 7, worth an extra 800XP. The remaining 1,000XP can be made up by having an additional Blood Caiman present (600XP) and giving the existing two Blood Caimans the advanced template (+400XP), simulating a mated pair of specially bred Blood Caiman and their young. While I favoured the Giant template for them, the implication of two huge sized crocodiles inside the hut made me shudder. The stats for the Blood Caiman and the two advanced Blood Caimans follow, as does Vesket’s revised stat block- note that the advanced template was applied to Vesket incorrectly- his natural armour has not been increased. Other differences emerge between an advanced lizardfolk and Vesket which I am hoping are the result of a point buy on his stats, not more errors (although this does not seem likely- remove the advanced template and Vesket apparently had 4 Intelligence and 4 Wisdom...). Vesket’s Level 8 stat point was spent on Strength. It is logical to assume that Vesket throws large Javelins rather than medium javelins, so I suspect this was yet another oversight. Thus Vesket’s javelin damage has been upgraded to a base of 2d6. Finally, Vesket doesn’t qualify for Vital Strike yet, so I have removed it and replaced it with Dazzling Display- his tactics mention ‘intimidating opponents’ so I believe he was originally intended to have Dazzling Display. This entire basic stat block for this encounter seems to be a complete mess of mistakes.

N6- Harem

Designer’s Notes: Only paragon females of the tribe who have proved themselves in battle are permitted to mate with The Lizard King. We change the lizardfolk to advanced and increase their jewellery.

All three of the females here are advanced lizardfolk, and each wears 1,500GP of jewellery (+50% from the book’s treasure).

N7- Spirit Hut

Designer’s Notes: My favourite encounter boosting tool has already been used for the Spirit of Stisshak (the advanced template). Adding four racial HD to the will-o’wisp increases its size to medium and its CR to 8, matching our XP target of 4,800 exactly- the will-o’wisp has grown strong on the fears of the tribe’s victims, especially Tig. Defensively the will-o’wisp is now extremely strong, but its offense is still limited so if the party truly have trouble with it they should easily be able to flee.

Treasure Recommendation - Make the masterwork cold iron longspear offered to the spirit +1, and increase the value of the animal skins to 600GP.
Part Six: Troll Trouble

Designer’s Notes:

Most of the changes in this area merely consist of a larger troll gathering within the lair, to provide a sufficient challenge for a larger group of players. The named enemies in this area have been modified and their stat blocks have been changed to encompass the changes. I have added several trollhounds to the lair as well- I’m a big fan of these nasty creatures.

R2- Barbican

The pair of Trolls also keep two Trollhounds here as part of the initial defence.

Treasure Recommendation - Increase the total value of the coins found in the Troll’s sacks to 351SP and 884GP.

R3- Watchtower

The troll in the watchtower has a trollhound up with him.

---

R4- Main Hall

Designer’s Notes:

Although this change puts us 800XP over our target, this allows us to keep the Kennels as written, balancing out the XP gain.

Two trolls are here with the Trollhound rather than just one.

R7-Nagrundi’s Room

Designer’s Notes:

Although initially I wanted to give Nagrundi extra racial HD, I was unsure if the extra racial HD would be sufficient to increase his size as once again I do not have access to Tome of Horrors. Instead, I opted to give the brute the giant template, increasing his size to huge so that his head touches the ceiling of the thirty foot high room. As a reward for his brutishness, Nagrundi has also been given a Ring of Protection. This change increases his CR to 9, increasing his XP value from 4,800 to 6,400- only 800XP from our target. Adding a trollhound that Nagrundi frequently bullies to this room matches our XP target of 7,200XP exactly. Nagrundi’s modified stat block is listed below. I would be interested in how this encounter compares with the final encounter with Hargulka if you would care to comment on the thread on the Paizo forums.

While I understand that people may wonder why Nagrundi wouldn’t see Hargulka as his inferior due to his massive size over the troll, I personally would like to think that Nagrundi fears the smaller troll’s battle prowess, and especially his legendary necklace of fireballs.

The giant template makes Nagrundi’s damage output while using power attack impressive- you may wish to spread out his attacks among different opponents somewhat in Rounds 2 and 3 so that he doesn’t simply eviscerate one PC before they can take him down.

Sunlight Petrification (Ex) A rock troll exposed to natural sunlight is staggered and must make a DC 20 Fortitude save each round to resist permanently turning to stone. A stone to flesh spell (or similar effect) restores a petrified rock troll, but if it remains exposed to sunlight it must immediately start making new Fortitude saves to avoid petrification. Spells like sunray or sunburst that create powerful natural sunlight cannot petrify a rock troll, but they do become staggered for 1d4 rounds after being exposed to such an effect.
R9- Hargulka’s Room

Designer’s Notes:

Hargulka’s damage output actually seemed fairly low for his CR, so my changes included an extra fighter level (taking Weapon Specialisation) and increasing the potency of the magic on his weapon to +2. This increases his CR to 9 and his XP yield to 6,400-800XP short of our 7,200XP target. Thus, Hargulka’s room also includes his own personal trollhound pet, and he attacks the hound’s killer in a fury should it be killed. Hargulka’s modified stats are listed below - he has also been given a small armour upgrade (+1 to +2). Note that with this increase Hargulka’s BAB increases to +8, thus his power attack changes at this new threshold.

Designer’s Notes:

Giving all three of the violet fungi the advanced template preserves the theme of the area (my initial idea was to replace the fungi with three gray oozes) while matching our XP target of 3,600XP. The violet fungi are listed here with the advanced template applied.

This hideous affliction causes 1d4 points of Strength damage and 1d4 points of Constitution damage. This is a poison effect. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Treasure Recommendation- Increase the value of the coins found to 321GP

V3- Cave of the Shambler

Designer’s Notes:

As the shambling mound’s CR is increased to 7 due to the centipede swarm, applying the advanced template to both would logically increase the CR of the encounter to CR8- matching our XP target of 4,800 (the combined XP of the two beasts also make this amount perfectly). The advanced shambling mound and advanced centipede swarm’s statistics are listed below.

V5- Spider Nest

Increase the number of spiders here from 6 to 9.

V6- Lair of the Beast

Designer’s Notes:

Increasing the CR of the Owlbear from 9 to 10 is an obvious way to increase the XP by +50% exactly, but I spent a lot of time pondering how best to gain the CR increase. In the end I opted for racial HD advancement, using table 1-1: Monster Statistics by CR to make tweaks and make the Owlbear fit CR10. Using this table, a single HD advancement let the Enraged Giant Owlbear fall unto CR10 comfortably, with attack rolls and damage a little higher than expected, saves a little lower than expected, AC significantly lower than expected but HP significantly higher than expected.

I had originally intended to upgrade the Owlbear’s barding but in light of reviewing this table I am happy to leave the Owlbear’s AC low as almost everything else is above par. For the Owlbear’s 11 HD feat, I gave it Improved Natural Attack (Claw) which boosts its average damage by 6 points or so per round. I also increased the Owlbear’s natural armour by a single point to keep the same pace trailing behind CR.

Remember to use power attack on every attack with the Owlbear- an enraged, insane Owlbear of huge size isn’t going to mind trading accuracy for damage. If the party get lucky on the initiative rolls and the Owlbear looks like its going to be easily defeated, don’t hesitate to grant it extra HP- This should be a hard-fought battle with the beast that was able to devastate an entire town or city, and should feel suitably epic.
